Stevenson Off For Campaign In Far West

Denver Speech Slated To Answer Jobs By Republican Leaders

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Adlai Stevenson flew to Denver Friday to open a campaign tour of the West that his managers hope will outmatch Dwight D. Eisenhower's sweep through the South.

He expects to hit nine states in nine days, traveling mostly by air. In at least one speech, and possibly others, the Democratic presidential candidate intends to carry the fight to the Republicans, answering arguments, and attempting to mow down some of their major contentions. The Denver address Friday night will be aimed at the GOP battle cry, "It's time for a change."

Heretofore, Stevenson has been largely occupied with setting forth his own ideas, laying the broad foundation of his campaign. He has not answered in detail Republican accusations about corruption in government, nor taken public notice of attacks on himself.

In passing, the governor has flipped a few political darts at the opposition. Mostly, however, he had concentrated on elucidating the principles of his own program. The Denver speech departs from this pattern.

STEVENSON'S campaign manager, Wilson Wyatt, said he will "pay his respects for one or more of the catch phrases and slogans of the Republicans."

Stevenson, along with some 65 correspondents accompanying him on the western trip, watched a television broadcast Thursday night of Eisenhower's Philadelphia speech. The political writers were guests in the executive mansion for dinner.

They deserted the tables en masse, however, when the broadcast of Eisenhower's appearance began. So did Stevenson, leaving before the ice cream appeared.

Stevenson smiled several times as the speech proceeded but he made no comment.

He described the reports of Eisenhower's high powered drive through the South as merely "interesting." He added, "It hasn't worried us."

Sen. George Smathers of Florida took a different view. He said "Eisenhower made a big impression. It certainly means he's got some strength."

The Florida Democrat went on to say he considers it a "possibility" that Eisenhower might crack the solid South and carry Florida. In a conference here with the governor Thursday, Smathers urged him to campaign in Florida.

Blondes Fail To Score In Beauty Test

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Blondes may be "whistle-bait" in some quarters, but so far none has lured a point in talent and swim suit preliminaries for the Miss America crown.

All of the five lovelies who have garnered precious points in two nights of competition in the two divisions are brunettes of one shade or other.

And time is fast running out on the girls with the light colored locks. Friday night will see the last of the preliminaries before final judging Saturday night.

Thursday night's honors went to Miss Georgia, Neva Jane Langley of Macon, who has dark brown tresses; and Miss Chicago, Jo Hoppe, a brunette.

They joined three other brunettes in the preliminary winner's circles: Miss District of Columbia, Iris Anne Fitch who has brown hair; Miss Alabama, Gwen Harmon of Birmingham whose tresses are tawny; and Miss California, Jeanne Shores of Azusa, with chestnut locks.

Miss Langley and Miss Hoppe, both green-eyed and 19, won the talent and bathing suit competitions respectively. The Macon miss is a music student, scored with a piano rendition.

3 Of 4 Escapees Nabbed By Police

ZANESVILLE, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Two of the four men who sawed their way out of the Athens County jail Tuesday were captured here Friday. A third was caught Wednesday in Norwalk.

Officers found Zeke Holbert, 21, of Zanesville, and Ray Slaughter, 24, of Cleveland, sleeping at the home of Holbert's father, Ezekiel Holbert, Ray Taylor, 40, of Broadwell, and Jesse Jennings, 24, of Gloucester, fled the jail with Holbert and Slaughter. Jennings was nabbed in Norwalk, his former home. Taylor has not been caught.

HITLER'S VOLKSWAGON (people's car), which he promised to put in every German garage and didn't, makes a new appearance with its owner, Chester F. Malley, in Detroit. It served as the wehrmacht's counterpart of the Jeep in World War II, is now being produced as a passenger car in postwar Germany. It has a four-cylinder, 62-hp engine, goes faster than 50 mph and makes 28-30 miles on a gallon of gasoline. Four jacks, one for each wheel, are built in.

Four Arrested In Dog Theft; Pointers, Setters Still Missing

Three men were held in Pickaway County Jail Friday in lieu of $1,000 bond each following their arrests on accusations of stealing four dogs from the Pickaway County dog pound.

A 16-year old boy, unidentified by request of juvenile authorities, was also held. Officers said he had been on probation for a previous violation.

Jailed in connection with the theft of the four valuable bird dogs were: Glenn Heeter, 28, of Ashville

Route 2; Arthur Wilkes, 26, of 147 Logan street; and Theodore Binion, 44, of Amanda Route 1.

The arrests were made by Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff on affidavits filed by Ralph Wallace, county dog warden.

THE DOGS, with total value estimated at $550, were stolen last Friday night from the pound. Heeter, Wilkes and Binion were held for the grand jury after pleading innocent to the accusations in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root. The accusation against the juvenile was considered in juvenile court.

Arrest of the group came after Wallace was tipped the four were seen Sunday at coon dog field trials near Kenton.

According to testimony at the hearing, Wilkes and the juvenile climbed into a pen at the dog pound and handed over two pointers and two setters to Heeter and Binion.

They later sold the dogs to strangers, authorities were told. One of the animals, valued at approximately $150, was said to have been sold for three dollars and a watch.

Wilkes and the boy were arrested in Circleville. The other two were taken into custody Thursday while working between Zanesville and Cambridge.

The two missing pointers are liver and white. One of the setters is red and the other black and white.

U.S. Civilian Payroll Jumps By $2 Billion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Uncle Sam's civilian payroll for the fiscal year that ended June 30 soared 30 percent to a total of more than $94 billion.

A total of 2,599,122 persons were on the government's civilian payroll during July, an increase of 2,360 over June.

Both the fiscal year costs and the July totals are based upon certified reports made by the scores of federal departments, commissions, and agencies to the Congressional Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Expenditures.

For the last fiscal year (1952), the committee said payrolls of government civilian workers totaled $9,541,000,000, an increase of 24 per cent or $1,822,000,000 over the previous 12 months.

The increase was due to (1) pay raises voted federal workers by Congress during the 12 months, and (2) the fact there are more government workers.

Civilians employed by the military establishment received $4,639,000,000, an increase of 32 per cent of $1,136,000,000 over fiscal 1951.

Workers in civilian agencies were paid $4,902,000,000, a gain of 16 per cent or $686,000,000 over the previous year.

Most of the July increase in civilian government workers was military establishment which gained 2,329 during the month.

Ike And Adlai Face 18-Acre Farm Audience

KASSON, Minn., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Ike and Adlai will have an "18-acre audience" for their Saturday speeches at the national plowing contest.

Site for the talks by the two presidential candidates is a natural amphitheater of that size but without any seats for the spectators.

"Each person, average that is, will take up a standing space two by two square feet," explained W. M. Roberts of Rochester, director of operations. "That brings it to 10,000 standees per acre, or 180,000 for the whole shebang. Could be."

Roberts added, however, that his committee would be "more than satisfied" if the expected crowd of just over 100,000 shows up. He said:

"We'll have our hands full with traffic, even at that figure."

In addition to two score Minnesota highway patrolmen, two battalions of state guardsmen and 300 Boy Scouts will help handle the thousands of cars.

Dwight Eisenhower, the Republican candidate for President, will give his speech about 11 a. m. (EST) while his Democratic opponent, Adlai Stevenson, will be heard about 4 p. m.

The two talks are considered to be of top importance since they are expected to outline the farm policies of the two candidates.

Best Years For Creative Work—30s Or 40s

Your Best Chance Of Having Annual Income Of $1 Million Due At Age 80

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Your best chances of having an annual income of $1 million or more will come when you are between 80 and 89 years old.

An Ohio University psychologist, Dr. H. C. Lehman, presented such statistics to the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association. They showed that in general, people who become bigshots in politics, diplomacy, collegiate administration, military life, industry, commerce and the high courts of the land usually are at least 50 years old.

But—He also reported that a man's best years for producing creative work-like writing books, painting pictures, or doing big things in science—are usually in the thirties or early forties.

In the field of leadership—in politics and other endeavors—as distinguished from men who are outstanding in creative fields—the psychologist gave these figures:

The most likely age to become President of the United States is anywhere from 50 to 54; ambassador, senator, or boss of the army from 60 to 64; Supreme Court justice or speaker of the House of Representatives, 70 to 74; a college president, 50 to 54.

About those million dollar plus incomes: Dr. Lehman failed to state the attributes of the folks who received them; all he said was that oldsters between 80 and 89—without necessarily working—are the folks who most usually receive them.

He had a separate category for receivers of incomes of $50,000 or more: persons 60 to 64.

It is interesting to note that insurance companies indicate that the law of averages says today's man will be lucky to live to be 70 . . . as if the odds against earning $1 million—or even $50,000—a year were not great enough as it is.

On the age differences between the "creativity" and "leadership" fields, Dr. Lehman believes:

"It appears that the conditions essential for creativity and originality, which can be displayed in private achievement, come earlier than those social skills which contribute to leadership and eminence and which inevitably must wait, not upon the insight of the leader himself, but upon the insight of society about him."

Trio Is Held In Death Of Farmer, 68

BATAVIA, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Police here are holding a widow, her son and son-in-law for "further questioning" in the death of the widow's husband, Hawkins Dean, 68-year-old farmer of Owensville.

Held in Clermont County jail were Mrs. Dovie Blanche Dean, third wife of the farmer; her son, Carl G. Myers Jr., 21; and Clyde Bryant, 44, son-in-law of Mrs. Dean.

Police said an autopsy report showed traces of arsenic in Dean's body at the time of death.

That autopsy was requested by Dean's daughter, Mrs. May Perry of Owensville, following her father's death Aug. 28.

Dean's will, executed April 11, declared his intention of marrying "Dovie Myers."

The will specified his widow be left his entire estate for use in her lifetime and that after her death the estate, valued at $10,000, revert to his daughter.

Records in Clermont County probate court show on April 13, the day after the will was signed, Dean and Mrs. Myers were married.

Water Pipe Being Laid Under River

Work began Friday on the installation of a new auxiliary water main under the Scioto River, north-west of Circleville.

Water Manager Ervin Leist said contract for laying the new main was awarded in May, 1951, to the C. F. Repligle Co. for $24,500.

Although the pipe arrived here in December, work was postponed until now to allow the river to reach a low level.

Leist said the new line, a 12-inch main, will be an auxiliary to the 16-inch line which now supplies the city with water from the waterworks, located along Big Darby Creek.

Actually, the new line will be laid beneath the bottom of the river. Leist said the main will be laid more than two feet below the river bed.

PIPE FOR the job is special ball-and-socket river crossing pipe, which allows the line to settle without breaking.

Included in the operation will be installing two new valves, one on each side of the river. Leist said the water will have to be cut off when the valves are installed, and the first cutoff may come at midnight Saturday.

The pipe-laying project is located just north of the mouth of Big Darby Creek.

UN Sabrejets Knock Off 3 More Migs

SEOUL, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Some 20 United Nations Sabrejet Friday shot down three Communist Migs, probably destroyed one and damaged three, the U. S. Fifth Air Force said.

That raised the two-day toll to 16 Migs destroyed, one probably, and six damaged.

Allied losses, if any, were not reported.

The fliers engaged the Russian-built Migs in seven dog fights over North Korea. Other UN warplanes plastered a North Korean mining center and supply dumps.

UN infantrymen and artillery hurled back eight Chinese columns which staged desperate new assaults on blood-soaked Bunker Hill in a flareup on the long-dormant western front.

U. S. Eighth Army staff officers estimated 400 Reds were killed or wounded in two hours of bitter pre-dawn fighting. The Reds stormed through intense defensive fire to within hand grenade range before their columns were smashed.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, told a news conference Communist troop strength in Korea has increased slightly the past few months to more than a million.

Although UN air attacks are hurting the Reds, he said, "the enemy has rather ample stocks for an offensive." Van Fleet said, however, he does not expect one this fall.

Russian Scoffs At American 'Snollygosters,' Peace Aims

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Russia's Jacob A. Malik Friday introduced President Truman's word "snollygoster" in the UN.

In a speech before the Security Council, the Soviet delegate threw the American slang word into a Russian-language attack on American political leaders.

"These are the snollygosters," he said, "the hypocrites who try to use everything to achieve their end. They are not guiding themselves by the UN charter, but by the lowest principles of hate and discrimination against countries."

Truman used the word "snollygoster" during a recent whistle stop speech, in referring to supporters of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) whom he said were frustrated in trying to control the Republican national convention.

MALIK SCOFFED at the peace declarations of the two American presidential candidates and accused Dwight D. Eisenhower of planning aggression against Russia.

Malik referred to statements by President Truman and the presidential candidates saying they want to work for peace.

"We have heard that too often," Malik said.

He did not mention Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate, by name but he referred to the Republican nominee several times. At one time, he said, Eisenhower had explained why he wanted an Army in Europe.

"Now it becomes clear that he wants it for aggression," Malik said.

He said the United States wants to admit to the UN only nations which will be U. S. allies.

"The United States has lost all hope of including Romania, Bulgaria, and Hungary in their bloc," he said, adding:

"Truman, Secretary of State Acheson, and Eisenhower would sign a pact with the devil himself if that partner would loudly yell about aggression."

Officials said the compromise was accepted because of the age of the case, the complex nature of the government's proof, Kreiser's stock market losses, and deductions he was entitled to but had not listed.

The case was brought to light under the bureau's new ruling under which current compromise tax settlements are automatically reported and old cases disclosed.

The bureau's voluminous file on the case indicated that the government was somewhat dazzled by its encounter with the great artist, and that Kreiser lived up to the best artistic tradition in knowing practically nothing about his prosperous but tangled affairs.

Kreiser said he had always depended upon advisers, adding: "I have not the slightest commercial sense." His wife, Harriet, told the bureau: "He knows nothing, nothing; he can only fiddle, fiddle, fiddle."

Truman Critic To Back Adlai

OCEAN CITY, Md., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Sen. O'Connor (D-Md.), who has freely criticized the Truman administration, says he will take the stump for the Democrat's presidential nominee, Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois.

In announcing last January he would not seek reelection, O'Connor said he wanted "to be free to speak frankly and bluntly" about the Truman administration.

His endorsement of Stevenson made it obvious he feels a Stevenson administration would be quite different from the Truman administration.

Famed Fiddler Settles Old U.S. Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Fritz Kreisler, world-famed violin virtuoso, and his wife settled tax claims amounting to $1,384,513 in 1944 for $300,000, the Bureau of Internal Revenue disclosed Friday.

The bureau quoted the Vienna-born violinist as saying he had no intention of defrauding the government, but became involved in the case through innocent error, bad advice, and his own complicated affairs.

Officials said the compromise was accepted because of the age of the case, the complex nature of the government's proof, Kreiser's stock market losses, and deductions he was entitled to but had not listed.

GOP Nominee Opens Crusade For Cleanup

Cheering Crowd Hears General Rap 'False' Prophets, Doctrines

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower is off on a roaring "crusade" for world peace which he says can be achieved only by throwing the "wasters, the bunglers and the incompetents" out of office in Washington.

To a wildly cheering throng of 17,500 jam-packed into Convention Hall here Thursday night, the GOP presidential nominee said:

"Let's sweep this country with such a wave of resolve, determination and action that the little men, the defeats, the false prophets of the false doctrine that it can't be done, will be tossed out of power and the real America given a chance to move in."

On that theme, and offering a 10-point peace program of his own, Eisenhower formally launched his presidential campaign.

Friday he carried his fight westward to Chicago and a five-day tour of the Midwest touching Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota and Indiana.

IN CHICAGO, he was scheduled to meet with Republican leaders and candidates for state offices in Illinois, Michigan and Indiana.

Friday night he is to talk with ward and precinct workers in Cook County (Chicago).

The Philadelphia speech, carried across the nation by television and radio, climaxed a day of thunderous ovations for Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie.

It began when an estimated 250,000 or more people thronged the downtown streets of Philadelphia to cheer the GOP candidate on his arrival from New York City.

It reached a peak when Eisenhower stepped onto the flood-lit stage at Convention Hall while applause rolled down from an audience packed to the rafters.

Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania had started out with an introduction but his voice was drowned out by roars as Eisenhower stepped to the stage with a big smile on his face.

Eisenhower lost no time in lashing out at the Democratic administration. He set the crowd to cheering by saying:

"I have said and will say again and again that there is only one issue in this campaign. That issue is the mess in Washington."

THEN EISENHOWER charged the administration "has bungled us perilously close to World War III." He said, "we will dedicate ourselves to a program for peace aimed to prevent future Koreans and the honorable end of this Korean war."

But he emphasized that although there is "need to bring hope" to the world's enslaved people—it must be done only through peaceful means. He said firmly, "We shall never be truculent—but we shall never appease."

He rejected isolationism, and called for "mutually profitable" world trade relations, and "unwavering support of the United Nations"—the latter plea getting only weak applause.

The first move toward world peace he insisted, was to put an administration in Washington "which we ourselves can trust."

$250 Extortion Try Traps Man

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Robert G. Eulert, 28, Chicago restaurant cook, stands accused of trying to extort $250 from a Columbus, O., woman under threat of revealing letters she wrote before she was married.

Postal authorities said Eulert met Mrs. Laverne Wirthman four years ago in Miami, before she was married. They said the two corresponded and Eulert recently threatened to turn the letters over to her husband, George, unless she sent him $250.

According to testimony at the hearing, Wilkes and the juvenile climbed into a pen at the dog pound and handed over two pointers and two setters to Heeter and Binion.

They later sold the dogs to strangers, authorities were told.

One of the animals, valued at approximately $150, was said to have been sold for three dollars and a watch.

Wilkes and the boy were arrested in Circleville. The other two were taken into custody Thursday while working between Zanesville and Cambridge.

The two missing pointers are liver and white. One of the setters is red and the other black and white.

Medical Association Slaps At Television Crime Shows

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Journal of the American Medical Association has taken a swipe at some of television's crime - and - horror programs, saying they could endanger the health of the nation's children.

"Unfortunately, astonishing little research has been done on the medical and psychological impact of television on children," the Journal said in an editorial.

The Journal said that "for its own interest" the television industry should acknowledge the "adverse medical and psychological implications" found in many such programs.

"It should foster research on the impact of television on mind and body, and should make a sustained effort to avoid programming shows

Best Years For Creative Work—30s Or 40s

Your Best Chance Of Having Annual Income Of $1 Million Due At Age 80

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Your best chances of having an annual income of $1 million or more will come when you are between 80 and 89 years old.

An Ohio University psychologist, Dr. H. C. Lehman, presented such statistics to the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association. They showed that in general, people who become bigshots in politics, diplomacy, collegiate administration, military life, industry, commerce and the high courts of the land usually are at least 50 years old.

But—He also reported that a man's best years for producing creative work-like writing books, painting pictures, or doing big things in science—are usually in the thirties or early forties.

In the field of leadership in politics and other endeavors—as distinguished from men who are outstanding in creative fields—the psychologist gave these figures:

The most likely age to become President of the United States is anywhere from 50 to 54; ambassador, senator, or boss of the army from 60 to 64; Supreme Court justice or speaker of the House of Representatives, 70 to 74; a college president, 50 to 54.

About those million dollar plus incomes:

Dr. Lehman failed to state the attributes of the folks who received them; all he said was that oldsters between 80 and 89—with-out necessarily working—are the folks who most usually receive them.

He had a separate category for receivers of incomes of $50,000 or more; persons 60 to 64.

It is interesting to note that insurance companies indicate that the law of averages says today's man will be lucky to live to be 70 . . . as if the odds against earning $1 million—or even $50,000—a year were not great enough as it is.

On the age differences between the "creativity" and "leadership" fields, Dr. Lehman believes:

"It appears that the conditions essential for creativity and originality, which can be displayed in private achievement, come earlier than those social skills which contribute to leadership and eminence and which inevitably must wait, not upon the insight of the leader himself, but upon the insight of society about him."

GOP Nominee Opens Crusade For Cleanup

Cheering Crowd Hears General Rap 'False' Prophets, Doctrines

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower is off on a roaring "crusade" for world peace which he says can be achieved only by throwing the "wasters, the bunglers and the incompetents" out of office in Washington.

To a wildly cheering throng of 17,500 jam-packed into Convention Hall here Thursday night, the GOP presidential nominee said:

"Let's sweep this country with such a wave of resolve, determination and action that the little men, the defeats, the false prophets of the false doctrine that it can't be done, will be tossed out of power and the real America given a chance to move in."

On that theme, and offering a 10-point peace program of his own, Eisenhower formally launched his presidential campaign.

Friday he carried his fight westward to Chicago and a five-day tour of the Midwest touching Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota and Indiana.

IN CHICAGO, he was scheduled to meet with Republican leaders and candidates for state offices in Illinois, Michigan and Indiana.

Friday night he is to talk with ward and precinct workers in Cook County (Chicago).

The Philadelphia speech, carried across the nation by television and radio, climaxed a day of thunderous ovations for Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie.

It began when an estimated 250,000 or more people thronged the downtown streets of Philadelphia to cheer the GOP candidate on his arrival from New York City.

It reached a peak when Eisenhower stepped onto the flood-lit stage at Convention Hall while applause rolled down from an audience packed to the rafters.

Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania had started out with an introduction but his voice was drowned out by roars as Eisenhower stepped to the stage with a big smile on his face.

Eisenhower lost no time in lashing out at the Democratic administration. He set the crowd to cheering by saying:

"I have said and will say again and again that there is only one issue in this campaign. That issue is the mess in Washington."

THEN EISENHOWER charged the administration "has bungled us perilously close to World War III." He said, "we will dedicate ourselves to a program for peace aimed to prevent future Koreans and the honorable end of this Korean war."

But he emphasized that although there is "need to bring hope" to the world's enslaved people — it must be done only through peaceful means. He said firmly, "We shall never be truculent—but we shall never appease."

He rejected isolationism, and called for "mutually profitable" world trade relations, and "unwavering support of the United Nations"—the latter plea getting only weak applause.

The first move toward world peace he insisted, was to put an administration in Washington "which we ourselves can trust."

$250 Extortion Try Traps Man

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Robert G. Eulert, 26, Chicago restaurant cook, stands accused of trying to extort $250 from a Columbus, O., woman under threat of revealing letters she wrote before she was married.

Postal authorities said Eulert met Mrs. Laverne Wirthman four years ago in Miami, before she was married. They said the two corresponded and Eulert recently threatened to turn the letters over to her husband, George, unless she sent him $250.

Hull Improving

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Former Secretary of State Cordell Hull, 80, was reported Friday to have "maintained slow improvement" in Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Water Pipe Being Laid Under River

Work began Friday on the installation of a new auxiliary water main under the Scioto River, northwest of Circleville.

Water Manager Ervin Leist said contract for laying the new main was awarded in May, 1951, to the C. F. Replogle Co. for $24,500.

Although the pipe arrived here in December, work was postponed until now to allow the river to reach a low level.

Leist said the new line, a 12-inch main, will be an auxiliary to the 16-inch line which now supplies the city with water from the waterworks, located along Big Darby Creek.

Actually, the new line will be laid beneath the bottom of the river. Leist said the main will be laid more than two feet below the river bed.

PIPE FOR the job is special ball-and-socket river crossing pipe, which allows the line to settle without breaking.

Included in the operation will be installing two new valves, one on each side of the river. Leist said the water will have to be cut off when the valves are installed, and the first cutoff may come at midnight Saturday.

The pipe-laying project is located just north of the mouth of Big Darby Creek.

UN Sabrejets Knock Off 3 More Migs

SEOUL, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Some 20 United Nations Sabrejets Friday shot down three Communist Migs, probably destroyed one and damaged three, the U. S. Fifth Air Force said.

That raised the two-day toll to 16 Migs destroyed, one probably, and six damaged.

Allied losses, if any, were not reported.

The fliers engaged the Russian-built Migs in seven dog fights over North Korea. Other UN warplanes plastered a North Korean mining center and supply dumps.

UN infantrymen and artillery hurled back eight Chinese columns which staged desperate new assaults on blood-soaked Bunker Hill in a flareup on the long-dormant western front.

U. S. Eighth Army staff officers estimated 400 Reds were killed or wounded in two hours of bitter pre-dawn fighting. The Reds stormed through intense defensive fire to within hand grenade range before their columns were smashed.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, told a news conference Communist troop strength in Korea has increased slightly the past few months to more than a million.

Although UN air attacks are hurting the Reds, he said, "the enemy has rather ample stocks for an offensive." Van Fleet said, however, he does not expect one this fall.

Trio Is Held In Death Of Farmer, 68

BATAVIA, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Police here are holding a widow, her son and son-in-law for "further questioning" in the death of the widow's husband, Hawkins Dean, 68-year-old farmer of Owensville.

Held in Clermont County jail were Mrs. Dovie Blanche Dean, third wife of the farmer; her son, Carl G. Myers Jr., 21; and Clyde Bryant, 44, son-in-law of Mrs. Dean.

Police said an autopsy report showed traces of arsenic in Dean's body at the time of death.

That autopsy was requested by Dean's daughter, Mrs. May Perry of Owensville, following her father's death Aug. 28.

Dean's will, executed April 11, declared his intention of marrying "Dovie Myers."

The will specified his widow be left his entire estate for use in her lifetime and that after her death the estate, valued at $10,000, revert to his daughter.

Records in Clermont County probate court show on April 13, the day after the will was signed, Dean and Mrs. Myers were married.

Russian Scoffs At American Peace Aims

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Russia's Jacob A. Malik Friday introduced President Truman's word "snollygosters" in the UN.

In a speech before the Security Council, the Soviet delegate threw the American slang word into a Russian-language attack on American political leaders.

"These are the snollygosters," he said, "the hypocrites who try to use everything to achieve their end. They are not guiding themselves by the UN charter, but by the lowest principles of hate and discrimination against countries."

Truman used the word "snollygoster" during a recent whistle stop speech, in referring to supporters of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) whom he said were frustrated in trying to control the Republican national convention.

MALIK SCOFFED at the peace declarations of the two American presidential candidates and accused Dwight D. Eisenhower of planning aggression against Russia.

Malik referred to statements by President Truman and the presidential candidates saying they want to work for peace.

"We have heard that too often," Malik said.

He did not mention Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate, by name but he referred to the Republican nominee several times. At one time, he said, Eisenhower had explained why he wanted an Army in Europe.

"Now it becomes clear that he wants it for aggression," Malik said.

He said the United States wants to admit to the UN only nations which will be U. S. allies.

"The United States has lost all hope of including Romania, Bulgaria, and Hungary in their bloc," he said, adding:

"Truman, Secretary of State Acheson, and Eisenhower would sign a pact with the devil himself if that partner would loudly yell about aggression."

Officials said the compromise was accepted because of the age of the case, the complex nature of the government's proof, Kreiser's stock market losses, and deductions he was entitled to but had not listed.

The case was brought to light under the bureau's new ruling under which current compromise tax settlements are automatically reported and old cases disclosed.

The bureau's voluminous file on the case indicated that the government was somewhat dazzled by its encounter with the great artist, and that Kreiser lived up to the best artistic tradition in knowing practically nothing about his prosperous but tangled affairs.

Kreiser said he had always depended upon advisers, adding: "I have not the slightest commercial sense." His wife, Harriet, told the bureau: "He knows nothing, nothing; he can only fiddle, fiddle, fiddle."

His endorsement of Stevenson made it obvious he feels a Stevenson administration would be quite different from the Truman administration.

Truman Critic To Back Adlai

OCEAN CITY, Md., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Sen. O'Connor (D-Md.), who has freely criticized the Truman administration, says he will take the stump for the Democrat's presidential nominee, Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois.

In announcing last January he would not seek reelection, O'Connor said he wanted "to be free to speak frankly and bluntly" about the Truman administration.

His endorsement of Stevenson made it obvious he feels a Stevenson administration would be quite different from the Truman administration.

Meat Sandwiches On Embargo, Too

WINNIPEG, Sept. 5.—The embargo on Canadian cattle entering the United States apparently applies even to an animal sandwiched between two slices of bread.

A Winnipeg family reported that a Neche, N. D., customs officer told them that meat sandwiched in their picnic would have to be left in Canada.

The Winnipeg family just backed their motor-car up to the border, opened the picnic lunch, ate the unsanctioned sandwiches and then drove on across the line into the U. S.

Women Flock To See Ike, Hear His Talks

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—GOP presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower is using his famous twinkling eyes and big smile along with campaign oratory to win the women voters of the country.

Perhaps partly because of this effort, more than half the 250,000 persons who cheered him on Philadelphia's downtown streets Thursday along his 40-block route were women. Some of them ran alongside his car shaking hands and wishing him well.

And Thursday night in Convention Hall where he made his first big political speech of the campaign, a majority of the audience were women. Reporters traveling with the candidate in his two-day tour of the South said they noted the same trend.

Eisenhower's main theme was peace — a subject always close to the hearts of women.

His most definite accession to the feminine interest in politics came in Independence Hall where he remarked:

"I believe women are even more impressed because the American heritage strikes a little closer to them than to the average man. A man working all day long may get too busy at times to think of the spiritual values of this great shrine. Women, I think, never."

Tar Truck Crash Kills 3 Youths

Meat Sandwiches On Embargo, Too

WINNIPEG, Sept. 5.—The embargo on Canadian cattle entering the United States apparently applies even to an animal sandwiched between two slices of bread.

A Winnipeg family reported that a Neche, N. D., customs officer told them that meat sandwiches in their picnic would have to be left in Canada.

The Winnipeg family just backed their motor-car up to the border, opened the picnic lunch, ate the unsanctioned sandwiches and then drove on across the line into the U. S.

The youths were rounded up at the building by Police Chief William F. McCrady and Officer Leroy Hawks after someone reported the youths had entered.

McCrady said the youngsters told him they entered the building to hunt pigeons. Earlier, though, they had been told they were not permitted to hunt pigeons there.

The youngsters are expected to appear later before juvenile court.

Gordon Will Query State On Meeting

City Council President Ben Gordon Friday said plans for a public meeting on the Route 23 controversy may be announced next week.

Early next week Gordon plans to contact the state highway department to invite department spokesmen to the meeting. It had been agreed at least one state man would come to Circleville with estimates and other data when the public here was ready to hear the information.

One of the engineers handling studies on the proposed bypass has been on vacation, Gordon explained, but will probably be available next week.

Date for the public meeting would depend upon how soon the highway department men could come here.

THE STATE has offered to build and maintain a relocation of Route 23 around the western edge of Circleville if the city agrees to make adjustments in the corporation line.

A public hearing on the matter was agreed upon at council's regular meeting last Tuesday.

Scientists Scorn 'Saucer' Stories

STUTTGART, Germany, Sept. 5.—A group of scientists who seriously expect man someday to rocket to Mars, say that flying saucers may be nothing but optical illusions. At least they are not space ships from another planet.

The 200 scientists from 12 countries gathered here for the Third International Astronautical Congress agreed almost unanimously that the "saucers" aren't men from Mars or any other body out in space.

STOCKTON, Calif., Sept. 5.—Last December, someone stole the 600-pound brass noisemaker long used as the fire alarm in Santa Clara.

Thursday, Fire Chief Leonard George got a tip to look in the Alpha Kappa Phi house at the College of the Pacific here.

Sure enough, there was Santa Clara's big fire bell in the fraternity's trophy room. So are seven or eight other bells—trophies of freshmen pledge raids.

Six traffic violators were fined a total of $120 and costs Thursday in the court of Mayor Ed Amey.

BRISTOL, R. I., Sept. 5.—A check for $99,103.78 is missing somewhere in the U. S. postal system.

The check, representing net proceeds of a $100,000 town sewer bond issue, was mailed to the town July 23 by the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co.

Women Flock To See Ike, Hear His Talks

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—GOP presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower is using his famous twinkling eyes and big smile along with campaign oratory to win the women voters of the country.

Perhaps partly because of this effort, more than half the 250,000 persons who cheered him on Philadelphia's downtown streets Thursday along his 40-block route were women. Some of them ran alongside his car shaking hands and wishing him well.

And Thursday night in Convention Hall where he made his first big political speech of the campaign, a majority of the audience were women. Reporters traveling with the candidate in his two-day tour of the South said they noted the same trend.

Eisenhower's main theme was peace — a subject always close to the hearts of women.

His most definite accession to the feminine interest in politics came in Independence Hall where he remarked:

"I believe women are even more impressed because the American heritage strikes a little closer to them than to the average man. A man working all day long may get too busy at times to think of the spiritual values of this great shrine. Women, I think, never."

Tar Truck Crash Kills 3 Youths

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Sept. 5.—A convertible and a dump truck loaded with blazing asphalt collided headon Thursday, killing three women.

One of the women was thrown clear. The other two—both teenagers—were buried in the hot mixture of tar and gravel. Their bodies had to be removed with long-handled shovels. The three all were from Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Ike Labels Gettysburg 'Home'

Brockton Brogans Sent To Adlai

BROCKTON, Mass., Sept. 5.—The mayor of this famous shoe city doesn't like to see a fellow-Democrat going around with holes in his shoes, particularly when that man is a candidate for President.

Mayor C. Gerald Lucey saw a news photo of Adlai Stevenson with a hole in the sole of his right shoe. So he sent him a new pair of shoes.

"Brockton shoes are best for standing on a good Democratic platform," said Lucey's message accompanying the shoes.

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

Since the day when Adam blamed Eve for causing him to eat of the forbidden fruit, human beings have inclined to try to escape acceptance of responsibility for their own misdeeds, faults and failures by placing the blame elsewhere.

Every human being has had some practice doing so. We differ from one another only in the degree of frequency and intensity. All young children practice at it, and few if any of us adults have fully grown up.

Nothing in another person so annoys us as his readiness to run away from responsibility for his own delinquencies. It also annoys him and renders him unhappy. One of the marks of maturity and good mental health is the readiness to face the consequences of one's own choices and acts; and one of the signs of childishness and poor mental health is the inclination to escape from reality.

Obviously, we wish to educate our children to face with fortitude the results of their own decisions and behavior. We can see how the mother who wrote the following is worried.

"Dear Dr. Myers: My girl is going on six. My boy is three and the baby is one. The eldest is beginning to tell fibs. Whenever something happens, for example, if her dress is torn, she'll say it fell apart. If she knocks something down, she'll say it fell down. If she breaks something of her own, she'll say George (her brother) broke it. I don't want to punish her for her tales will get worse. I want her to tell me the truth. Evidently I have failed in this respect."

IN ANSWERING her, I said in part: I'm sure you are trying very hard to bring up those children well and that you are a better mother than you suppose you are. I hope you are very patient with your daughter when she accidentally breaks or harms something. It's possible that some of the accidents stem from her too great haste or jittery movements; in which case you should try to provide her with a more serene family atmosphere and help her to feel more secure, loved as much as the other children.

The younger ones may be rough with her things and in her efforts to protect them she could harm them and suppose with good grounds the younger children caused the damage.

When with your own eyes you see her tear her dress or knock something over, don't question or argue with her over the matter. If you are sure she did it deliberately, which is pretty improbable, explain to her quietly the seriousness of the matter, or in some clear-cut instances punish her by depriving her of a cherished privilege or having her sit unamused in a chair for 25 minutes.

But if you merely suspect her of a deliberate misdeed but don't have the objective evidence, don't put her on trial. Don't ask her to incriminate herself. Ignore tattling by the younger children.

In the meanwhile, you and Dad and your friends should try to help this child feel more worthwhile as a person, have more good times with her and help her have more fun with other children of her age.

Q. Some of our friends have commented on how quiet our daughter, 15, has been during their visits. They seem to think it a mark of good manners and respect to them. I wonder if this is so.

A. You should. She probably speaks so little because she is very self-conscious about speaking when your friends are present. No doubt she suffers keenly from this fear. And see what growth in personality she is missing.

Q. How may we parents deal with the common attitude in the child, "It might happen to others but it couldn't happen to me?"

A. By putting emphasis on getting him to help others to be safe.

Rotary Clubbers Hear Address By District Chief

Harry Reese, district governor of Rotary International, was guest speaker Thursday during a meeting of Circleville Rotary Club in Elk's home.

Reese, who has attended international Rotary meetings in Mexico City and at Lake Placid, said the world-wide organization has members in 75 countries and, even though language is a barrier, it is interesting to note that all clubs have the same aspirations, difficulties and problems.

He added that in practically all European countries, not behind the Iron Curtain, English is taught in the schools.

Reese presented a comprehensive talk on Rotary ideals and objectives, the basis of which are service and high ethical standards in business and personal transactions.

He also said community services and services to youth were an important part of the Rotary program.

Reese concluded by saying international peace and understanding must triumph if we are to have the kind of a world we want.

Barr Tests School Fire Extinguishers

Noble Barr of Circleville fire department has completed his annual inspection of fire extinguishers in Pickaway County schools.

Visits were made to all the schools except that at New Holland which has its own inspection routine.

Barr, who has been making the inspection each year since 1946, reported he found the extinguisher equipment in good condition and the teachers well informed on fire-fighting methods.

"Many of the children, of course,

still don't pay a lot of attention to fire hazards," he added, "but at least there's steady improvement in that respect, and they've got far more information and better training on the subject."

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

Since the day when Adam blamed Eve for causing him to eat of the forbidden fruit, human beings have inclined to try to escape acceptance of responsibility for their own misdeeds, faults and failures by placing the blame elsewhere.

Every human being has had some practice doing so. We differ from one another only in the degree of frequency and intensity. All young children practice at it, and few if any of us adults have fully grown up.

Nothing in another person so annoys us as his readiness to run away from responsibility for his own delinquencies. It also annoys him and renders him unhappy. One of the marks of maturity and good mental health is the readiness to face the consequences of one's own choices and acts; and one of the signs of childishness and poor mental health is the inclination to escape from reality.

Obviously, we wish to educate our children to face with fortitude the results of their own decisions and behavior. We can see how the mother who wrote the following is worried.

"Dear Dr. Myers: My girl is going on six. My boy is three and the baby is one. The eldest is beginning to tell fibs. Whenever something happens, for example, if her dress is torn, she'll say it fell apart. If she knocks something down, she'll say it fell down. If she breaks something of her own, she'll say George (her brother) broke it. I don't want to punish her if her tales will get worse. I want her to tell me the truth. Evidently I have failed in this respect."

IN ANSWERING her, I said in part: I'm sure you are trying very hard to bring up those children well and that you are a better mother than you suppose you are. I hope you are very patient with your daughter when she accidentally breaks or harms something. It's possible that some of the accidents stem from her too great haste or jittery movements; in which case you should try to provide her with a more serene family atmosphere and help her to feel more secure, loved as much as the other children.

The younger ones may be rough with her things and in her efforts to protect them she could harm them and suppose with good grounds the younger children caused the damage.

When with your own eyes you see her tear her dress or knock something over, don't question or argue with her over the matter. If you are sure she did it deliberately, which is pretty improbable, explain to her quietly the seriousness of the matter, or in some clear-cut instances punish her by depriving her of a cherished privilege or having her sit unamused in a chair for 25 minutes.

But if you merely suspect her of a deliberate misdeed but don't have the objective evidence, don't put her on trial. Don't ask her to incriminate herself. Ignore tattling by the younger children.

In the meanwhile, you and Dad and your friends should try to help this child feel more worthwhile as a person, have more good times with her and help her have more fun with other children of her age.

Q. Some of our friends have commented on how quiet our daughter, 15, has been during their visits. They seem to think it a mark of good manners and respect to them. I wonder if this is so.

A. You should. She probably speaks so little because she is very self-conscious about speaking when your friends are present. No doubt she suffers keenly from this fear. And see what growth in personality she is missing.

Q. How may we parents deal with the common attitude in the child, "It might happen to others but it couldn't happen to me?"

A. By putting emphasis on getting him to help others to be safe.

Rotary Clubbers Hear Address By District Chief

Harry Reese, district governor of Rotary International, was guest speaker Thursday during a meeting of Circleville Rotary Club in Elk's home.

Reese, who has attended international Rotary meetings in Mexico City and at Lake Placid, said the world-wide organization has members in 75 countries and, even though language is a barrier, it is interesting to note that all clubs have the same aspirations, difficulties and problems.

He added that in practically all European countries, not behind the Iron Curtain, English is taught in the schools.

Reese presented a comprehensive talk on Rotary ideals and objectives, the basis of which are service and high ethical standards in business and personal transactions.

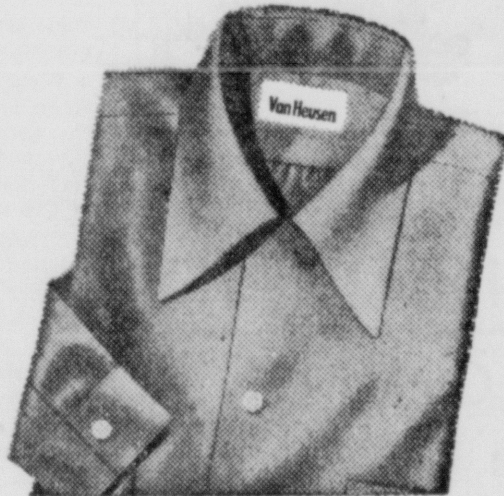

He also said community services and services to youth were an important part of the Rotary program.

Reese concluded by saying international peace and understanding must triumph if we are to have the kind of a world we want.

Barr Tests School Fire Extinguishers

Noble Barr of Circleville fire department has completed his annual inspection of fire extinguishers in Pickaway County schools.

Visits were made to all the schools except that at New Holland which has its own inspection routine.

Barr, who has been making the inspection each year since 1946, reported he found the extinguisher equipment in good condition and the teachers well informed on fire-fighting methods.

"Many of the children, of course,

still don't pay a lot of attention to fire hazards," he added, "but at least there's steady improvement in that respect, and they've got far more information and better training on the subject."

NEW DIATRIBE

APPARENTLY THE MORE money Americans pour into England, the less the English are impressed by things American. While willing to accept American dollars, they are carpingly critical of the American way of life.

Their latest tirade is against American youth, the teenagers described by James Thurber as having brown eyes and tiny minds. These youngsters, according to the London Sunday Express, have been given the idea the world belongs to them by parental indulgence. Their whole claim for attention, the Express declares, is their youth. They have no other qualifications.

Particularly offensive to the English mind are the sloppy clothes worn by American youngsters, their jargon in contrast to correct English, and their use of fast cars borrowed from their fathers. The English decry the claim that teenagers bring new ideas into the home and break the ice of old habits. "We'll have none of that in England," the Express declares.

All of which is unfortunate, for the English. They seem to forget that the teenagers of today will be running the government tomorrow, and will have the controlling voice in saying how long the United States will play rich uncle to the English people.

A TIME TO BUY

IN THE RECURRENT economic cycles of a free enterprise system, there are times to buy and times to resist the temptation to go on a buying spree. Following start of the war in Korea, people flocked to the stores in a "now-or-never" determination to anticipate future needs. Stocks were depleted and scarcities in many items occurred.

Later there was a tapering off in scarce buying, and stocks were speedily replenished. Prices in some lines weakened. It became apparent that the panic hoarding of 1950 was an error, at least in timing.

Today purchasing is on an even keel, with some indications of buyer resistance to inflated prices. But economic experts point out that prices lower than current quotations are not in sight, and that recent developments may result in higher prices all along the line. They say immediate needs can be provided for in the knowledge that this may be the best time to buy that will be experienced for years.

These Days

During the Tydings Committee investigation into subversives and how they manage to get into critical places where they can affect, if not dominate, the day-by-day handling of our foreign policy, particularly the expenditure of our money, curious things happened. Some of them looked as though Senator Tydings himself were doing some protecting and that is why he was defeated for re-election in Maryland.

One case is that of Theodore Geiger, once an employee of the State Department and subsequently an important assistant to Paul G. Hoffman at the ECA. Counsel for the Republican members of the Tydings Committee, Robert Morris, stated to the Committee:

"There is a case of a man named Theodore Geiger. He has been an employee of the State Department. He is now one of Paul Hoffman's top assistants. He is doing work that is quasi-state department in character. I have . . . gotten some witnesses together who will testify that he was a member of the same Communist Party unit as they were, and I think we would be delinquent if in the face of this evidence that is now on record. . . ."

To this, Tydings replied:

"Turn it over to the FBI or do something else with it. . . . We don't want to waste this afternoon."

In spite of this colloquy and with no further investigation, Geiger remained in a high position in Paul G. Hoffman's organization. However, the McCarran Committee revived the inquiry. The subject for consideration was the Communist cell at Columbia University. The following is pertinent to Theodore Geiger, Paul Hoffman's assistant:

"Senator Ferguson. . . . Do you know any other Communist in your cells or that you knew up in these colleges that came down in the Government, the United States Government?"

"(William Martin) Canning. There was one other who belonged to the same Columbia University unit, Theodore Geiger."

"Senator Ferguson. Was he a Communist?"

"Mr. Canning. Yes, he was. . . ."

"Senator Ferguson. Where did you know him?"

"Mr. Canning. I knew him both at City College where he was a student, and later at Columbia University where he continued his graduate studies."

"Senator Ferguson. About when did he leave there? . . ."

"Mr. Canning. I think he finished at City College, he received his bachelor's degree in 1935."

"Senator Ferguson. Where did he come in the Government?"

"Mr. Canning. Into the Economic Cooperation Administration."

"Senator Ferguson. Do you know whether he is in Government now?"

"Mr. Canning. No. I have been informed that he has resigned."

"Senator Ferguson. When?"

"Mr. Canning. Not a very long time ago, several months ago. . . ."

A Condition That Creates Breathing Crisis In Child

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THERE are a number of conditions that can interfere with a child's breathing and create a serious emergency. One of these is known as laryngotracheitis.

A child with this disease may first develop what seems like a cold. He then starts to run a high fever and the cold becomes progressively worse. Finally, the child has difficulty in breathing and begins to gasp for air.

Artificial Opening

This gradually becomes worse and worse, until the doctor may have to cut an artificial opening in the trachea, the "windpipe" leading from the throat to the lungs, so the child can breathe.

Usually, this condition is due to an infection by several kinds of germs simultaneously. It does not respond as readily to antibiotics as most infections do.

Most children with this condition have to be rushed to the hospital as quickly as possible to save their lives. On the way, they often improve, only to get worse after entering the hospital.

The reason for this, it is thought, is that the cool, moist night air on the way to the hospital has a soothing effect on the lining of the tubes leading to the lungs. But the dry, warm air of the hospital room quickly dries out these passages and destroys the temporary improvement. For this reason the child is sometimes placed in the moist air of a steam room, which may have a humidity as high as 90 per cent.

Cool Vapor Helpful

Cool air is even more comforting, however. A method now employed uses the vapors of sodium lauryl sulfate solution to create cool air with controlled humidity. It is given under a canopy similar to an oxygen tent. Oxygen is also helpful to most children with laryngotracheitis and can be given at the same time as the cool, moist air is given. Most children improve rapidly with this treatment. Incidentally, it eliminates the possible danger of steam burns, which may occur with other methods of producing high humidity.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. A. M.: My three-year-old son has the habit of drooling, and I can't seem to make him stop. What would you advise?

Answer: Drooling may be due to an excessive amount of saliva or to some weakness of the muscles in the mouth. In most cases, as the child grows older, the drooling gradually stops.

I do not think you need worry about this matter. There is no treatment which is of any value.

Bennet Ceri's Try, Stop Me

Nowadays, sex hygiene is taught in elementary schools all over the country. When Sam Levenson was a kid, however, he believed his mother's story that babies were brought by the stork until he was 12. Then, he says, came the day of enlightenment. His pal Benny's mother was about to produce a new heir, and Benny told the startled Sam the real facts of life. Sam ran home and repeated the story to his mother for ratification. Her reaction was prompt and characteristic. She whacked him sharply and commanded, "Don't you play with Benny no more!"

Sam also tells about one of his brothers who became the strong man of the neighborhood. He tore so many telephone books in half that a man from the phone company complained, "If you tear up one more book, we won't give you a phone if you ever order one." The brother once bared his chest and boasted to his father, "Go ahead and hit me as hard as you can. I won't even feel it." The father scowled, "I'll hit you when I want, not when you want."

Corn contains more oil than any other cereal.

CHAPTER ONE

FROWNING, Steve Raymond stopped by the desk in the office of Killoran and Calder, Attorneys. He pressed out a cigarette and immediately spun a tiny grooved wheel against flint to produce a flame for another. Under his cuff, which he pushed back impatiently, his watch said 3:25. Eve's appointment was for the half hour.

He walked over to the window, jerked the cord of the Venetian blind, and bars of sunlight shifted from the broadloom to the oak-paneled walls. Presently, from one of the glass-roofed taxicabs that looked like ladybirds in the sun down there on the Avenue, Eve would emerge, lovely and fresh and insolently cool. Every other woman in New York would be spiritless with the heat, but not Eve. Nothing touched Eve. Not heat nor cold, kisses, wrangling, rhyme nor reason. Nor marriage.

Well, that was over. The marriage was a statistic, now, one of the three that failed according to the analyst, who dispassionately reckoned percentages and felt none of the stigma or the bitterness.

"Take it easy," advised Killoran, relaxed in shirt sleeves on the other side of the desk. "You won't have to see her, Steve."

"Sure . . . Well, there won't be a scene. Eve hates them, too. If, just once, she'd throw a lamp or something! Not Eve. She's not that human. She gets what she wants, though. I'll say that for her."

"In this case," Killoran said dryly, "one hundred thousand dollars."

Steve turned from the window, leaned on the sill. His faint smile was unamused. "Funny, spending half my life dodging the females who couldn't see me for my money, and then being taken in by one who saw nothing else! Only I wouldn't face it. He asked abruptly, 'She ever tell you the story of her life, Gordon?'"

Killoran shook his head briefly. "She'd been kicked about," Steve said slowly. "Maybe I was sorry for her. No, that's humbug. I'm no altruist. I loved her. I married her. She is beautiful, Gordon."

Copyright, 1952, by Elsie Mack. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Killoran said nothing. "And it might have worked out," Steve continued, "if she hadn't been a liar and a cheat. There's not an honest emotion in her." He spoke without rancor, and went on less detachedly, "Yet there is a sort of integrity in her, at that. A rather merciless adherence to some formula. A grudge, I think, and before my time. She left that out of the life story, but I'll swear it's the clue to her behavior. She follows a pattern with a fidelity that would be almost admirable if there weren't something sinister in it. She needs money, and that's where I came in. Exit by the trash can. After today she won't give me another thought."

Gravely Killoran regarded his client and friend. "And you, Steve?"

"Me? I'm cured."

"Now look, Steve. No use going sour on marriage just because one woman—"

The interoffice buzzer sounded, and Killoran flicked a switch. "Yes?"

"Mrs. Steve Raymond, Mr. Killoran."

"Send her in," Killoran shrugged into a tan-colored tropical jacket, and ducked his head towards a door on the other side of the room. "In there, if you'd rather. This shouldn't take long."

Killoran was alone in the room when Eve came in.

She was a slender girl, with the good sense to leave her eyebrows thick and not to run her lip brush over the edges of her mouth. As she came through the door she took off a wide-brimmed leghorn hat and ran her fingers through dark and fashionably short hair. She had the fresh, unspoiled look of a schoolgirl, but Killoran wasn't hoodwinked. He had already, on Steve's behalf, talked business with Eve, and he knew Steve hadn't made an overstatement when he said Eve always got what she wanted.

Eve brushed with her hat at the tendrils of smoke still twisting in the bars of sunlight. "Steve's brand," she murmured. She glanced at the closed door across the room and her mouth dipped at the corners with amusement. "Oh, well," she said sullenly.

Killoran narrowed his eyes at her. But Eve looked calmly back at him, and after a moment Killoran wrote Eve Romney on the check and handed it to her.

She managed to seem casual as she scanned it and placed it in her handbag. But when she stood up and said, "Thank you, Mr. Killoran," she couldn't quite control the triumph in her voice.

"You understand this means you have no further claim on Steve Raymond?"

Her glance at the closed door was something between indulgence and contempt. "There's nothing more I want from Steve, thank you."

She went out, swinging her hat by its streamers, and walked towards the elevator.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind

the news

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—Stevenson-Eisenhower repudiations of powerful pressure groups on and off Capitol Hill will provide a Nov. 4 test of whether the American people possess more independence and intelligence than the politicians have credited them with in the last 20 years. In off-the-record statements, both candidates endorse this analysis of their strategy.

The election will furnish an answer, perhaps, to the still undetermined question of whether the total adult electorate—fifty or sixty millions—will vote for the national good as against the interests of small and selfish but vocal, well organized and financed lobbies at Washington.

The two men, in effect, are asking whether the American people are citizens of the United States or "captives" of self-seeking and divisive blocs.

CRITICISM — Although the Democratic nominee, Adlai Stevenson, has raised this issue in more dramatic form than the Republican candidate, Dwight Eisenhower, the latter has pitched his appeal on the same high level. Indeed, his refusal to descend to a lower plane underlies his advisers' criticism of his strategy. They insist that he tailor his campaign to the labor, racial and farm vote.

Moreover, as European commander during World War II, Ike resisted personal, political and military demands as demagogic and insisted as those to which a presidential candidate is subjected. Only when he was overruled by the White House, Downing Street and the Pentagon did he subordinate his own judgments.

INADVISABLE — Finally, even if Eisenhower wanted to make the usual play to these voting groups—which he says he does not—his opponent's frank warnings to the veterans, to organized labor and to state tideland oil interests, make inadvisable a contrary strategy.

With both candidates telling off the pressure boys, how they will fare on election day may depend on other and more nationally important factors.

INDICTMENT—Although there remain many other grave national problems to be resolved on Nov. 4, it is doubtful if any other single action or attitude by the two men seeking the presidency in these difficult days has twanged a more thankful chord with the general public.

It is their best interests, so Ike and Adlai seem to feel, which have been endangered and short-changed by the favoritism shown during the last 20 years, largely for partisan, vote-getting purposes, to such segments of the population as labor, racial minorities, farmers and party cronies.

In a larger sense, too, Stevenson's hands-off notice to bloc-minded voters constitutes his most severe indictment of the man he has mentioned only once since he obtained the nomination—Harry S. Truman.

PRESSURE — Although there was some justification for Franklin D. Roosevelt's favoritism to these elements of the electorate, since labor, farmers and the colored race suffered most severely from the depression and a laissez-faire economic system, Truman has preserved the pressure process; solely to win elections.

He has demanded Taft-Hartley repeal and civil rights legislation, although he knew that congressional compliance was hopeless. And he has never lifted a finger to secure their enactment. His behaviour during the steel strike was designed to compensate for his futility on Capitol Hill.

OUTWORN — At the Chicago convention, relying on Truman's successful use of these acts in the 1948 campaign, the Moody-Williams-Harriman-Roosevelt radicals tried to reorganize the Democratic party on the basis of political blocs. That they were rebuffed and discredited by the party elders suggests that their methods are outworn.

In this connection, it is noteworthy that Stevenson, in his Labor Day address in Detroit, gave no plug to Sen. Blair Moody, although he faces a hard fight for reelection.

SINCERITY — In view of the Roosevelt-Truman surrender to these lobbies, it is natural that the voters show some skepticism toward present-day presidential pledges. But the comforting fact is that both candidates' records indicate their sincerity.

To the despair of backroom politics, Stevenson got away with this kind of an anti-pressure program at Springfield. He forced a reduction in the budget appropriation for state fair advertising in the newspapers. He vetoed bills to increase pensions for teachers and the aged. He blocked funds for political highways and bridges. He opposed larger payments to veterans and to their organizations.

He refused to sign two politically explosive measures. One would have shortened the work week for thousands of state employees. The other, in the midst of Communists-in-government revelations at Washington, would have penalized "Reds" in what he regarded as an undemocratic manner.

REACTION — Adlai and Ike have used almost the same language in forecasting their reaction to pushing and shoving at Washington. Addressing the American Legion convention, the Democrat said he would resist their demands, if they were "excessive or in conflict with the public interest, which must always be the paramount interest."

Speaking before the same audience a day earlier, Eisenhower declared that he would judge any veterans' proposal with the simple question: "Is it good for the country?"

City Charter Discussed At Woman's Club Meeting

Richard Penn Is Speaker.

Richard Penn, local attorney, member of council, and a member of the Charter Commission, was the speaker for the first meeting of Junior Woman's Club for the new club year. Mrs. Milton Patterson was hostess for the meeting in her home on High street Thursday.

Mr. Penn discussed the proposed Circleville City Charter, opening his talk with the reminder that the functions of city government are executive, judicial and legislative. Under the present mayor-council system the mayor administers the judicial function according to state statute, for which he is paid by receiving the costs from each guilty conviction in his court. Mr. Penn added that some cities have a Municipal Court to handle this function. In such cases the judge is a lawyer with at least six years experience and he is paid a salary instead of depending on fines and their costs.

Mr. Penn listed as the functions of the legislative branch, or council, as passing laws and appropriating money. The function of the executive branch is to carry out the directives of the legislative branch. Under the proposed city charter the speaker explained the executive and legislative branches of government would be combined under one head, a council of seven members elected at large by the people of Circleville.

Councilmen are now elected one from each ward and three at large for a two year term, all of which end at the same time. Under the charter, terms of councilmen would be four years staggered so that there would never be an entirely inexperienced council. Under the charter plan, according to Mr. Penn, the administrative duties would be carried out by a city manager, trained for the job, who would be hired or fired by the council elected by the people. Under the charter, the city would not be without a mayor at least in name, the mayor would be a member of council elected by his fellow members to serve as its president and official representative.

Mr. Penn stressed that the only elective offices under the charter would be the seven councilmen and that the charter would abolish several positions in city government holders of which now draw salaries totalling approximately $11,000. This money would then be available as salaries for the city manager and assistant who would carry out these duties. Other points made by the speaker were that under the charter, councilmen would run on a non-partisan ticket similar to Board of Education members and that this too would effect a savings of $800 every two years, the cost of city primaries now held.

Mr. Penn also listed as another possible means of saving city funds under the charter, the fact that there would be centralized purchasing. Each department now purchases its own supplies. He listed as another advantage of the charter the fact that we now lose trained personnel every two years if political parties and personalities are changed by the voters. The speaker concluded his talk with a question period.

During the business session under the direction of the new president, Mrs. Patterson, copies of the new city-county calendar compiled by the Pickaway Association of Women's Clubs, were distributed and club members planned their years activities, which include a home talent show of September 24 and 25, the profits from which will be used to furnish a room in Berger Hospital's new wing.

The group also decided to continue its "Stamps for Wounded" project, to spend a day at Chillicothe Veteran's Hospital, to lend

A Humble and Greathearted Leader

HE ATONED FOR HIS SIN, AND JEHOVAH FORGAVE HIM.

Scripture—11 Samuel 11:2-12:33; 15:24-26; 16:5-13; 18:5; 31-33; 19:1-6, 18b-20; 24:18-25.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
KING DAVID WAS NOT A PERFECT man. He was tempted and fell, even as we. His great sin, which angered Jehovah, was adultery and murder, both of which in an ordinary man would have meant death. There was no one in his kingdom who had the power to condemn him, however, but he was punished severely, the result of these crimes following him all through his life. Jehovah forgave him, however, because he was truly repentant and realized the enormity of his wickedness.

Walking on the roof of his palace, he saw a beautiful woman bathing. Although she was the wife of another man, Uriah, an officer in David's army, he took her. Then, when the husband returned he decided to get rid of him, so he gave the husband a note to Joab, his captain (first having gotten Uriah drunk), telling him to place Uriah in the most dangerous place in the battle line where he certainly would be killed. He was slain, and after a period of mourning, David and ever, David found the Ark of the Covenant had been brought with the royal party. David ordered it carried back, for, he said, that if Jehovah were merciful to him he would come back to Jerusalem, but if God rejected him, "Let Him do to me as seemeth good unto Him."

As David continued his flight, a man of the family of the house of Saul, Shimei by name, came out and cursed the king and threw stones at him. One of David's company wanted to kill the man, but David would not let him, saying, "Behold my son, who came forth from my bowels, seeketh my life; how much more may this Benjaminite now do it? Let him alone, and let him curse; for Jehovah hath bidden him." This, too, David must have thought, was part of his punishment, which he must bear stoically.

Later the man repented and apologized to David, but this was after the revolt of Absalom was quelled. David had given command that Absalom was to be the woman, Bathsheba, were wed. Nathan, the prophet, came to David, and told him a parable about a rich man who had many flocks and herds, and a poor man who had but one ewe lamb, which he treasured like a child. The rich man wished to entertain a traveler, but didn't want to take one of his own flock and so took the poor man's only lamb, killed it and served it to his guest.

David was furious at the rich man for his action, and said he should not be allowed to live, but Nathan spoke sternly, "Thou art the man."

David was shocked into a realization of his great sin, and bitter remorse followed. Nathan told him that he need not die, but punishment would surely follow. The child that was born of Bathsheba would die; war would never depart from his house. The child of David and Bathsheba did die, and David mourned his death, but he felt it was a just punishment, and strength was given him to bear the loss.

The second son born of Bathsheba was Solomon, the wisest and greatest of kings, whose reign was marked by glory.

We are not given the chapters describing the terrible events connected with the revolt of David's son, Absalom, a handsome youth whom David loved dearly. He treacherously conspired to dethrone his father, winning many to his cause, and making it necessary for David and his court to flee from his palace. When, however, David bought the threshing-floor and the oxen for fifty shekels of silver. The plague was stayed, and the threshing-floor was to be the place where Solomon was to build his temple.

Teen Tips

You know how it is—parents talk about it forever, but it's when dating and social life begins that most high schoolers suddenly grow conscious of etiquette and want to have correct manners to make a good impression and prevent painful embarrassment.

A high school girl writes: "When I am with an escort, which is proper—walking side by side, hand-in-hand or arm-in-arm?" Ans.—It's good manners to walk side by side and correct for your date to take your arm to guide you across streets, up and down steps, etc.

"Second," she continues, "When at a movie, your escort helps you with your coat. Should I help him with his? Is it better to remove your coats in the lobby?"

Ans.—It's proper for your escort to help you with your coat, but not for you to help him. Men remove their coats in the lobby, because they usually fold them and hold them in their laps. Women usually slip theirs off after sitting down and put them on the back of the seat, but you could take it off in the lobby, if you like.

"Last," she concludes, "Why do escorts who have given you a good time at their expense expect you to thank them with 'make-believe' kisses? Don't you agree that a kiss is a symbol of love?"

Ans.—Right! Kisses are supposed to express real affection, not payment for a movie or a way of merely saying, "Thank you" for a date.

Mike DiSalle's Talkathon Sets Ohio Precedent

Would-Be Senator Plans Appearances In Four Other Cities

By REED SMITH
AP Political Writer

COLUMBUS, Sept. 5 — (AP)—Michael V. DiSalle's radio and television "talkathon" this week set two precedents.

It marked the first marathon use of Ohio air waves by a candidate for public office. The former price stabilizer and Toledo ex-mayor is the Democratic nominee for U. S. senator.

And it marked the first time a talkathon's opponent has appeared with the sponsor on his program so early in the campaign.

Sen. John W. Bricker of Columbus, Republican nominee for reelection, spent the good part of an hour with DiSalle on the seven-hour broadcast Wednesday.

Bricker put in a surprise appearance on a telegraphed invitation by DiSalle who said he has been trying unsuccessfully to get the senator into a debate since the May primary.

DiSalle said later that Bricker's appearance indicated the senator's concern over his victory chances in the Nov. 4 election. "He's definitely in the worried class," DiSalle said.

DiSalle said that when a strongly regarded candidate is willing to accept invitations to debate his opponent from the same platform early in a campaign it indicates weakness.

Bricker spent most of his broadcast time defending his record.

DiSalle invited Bricker to his other talkathons. He said a place with Bricker's name will be reserved and questions for the senator will be piled up there.

A Columbus newspaper Friday reported that the senator would participate in no more talkathons.

DiSalle's next talkathon will be for six hours in Toledo next Friday. Other radio and TV talkathons will be in Cincinnati, Dayton and Cleveland. No dates are set.

More than 1,700 questions and $1,600 in campaign contributions poured in during the broadcast.

The program ran from 4 to 11 p. m. without interruption. All Columbus radio and TV stations carried parts of it.

It cost DiSalle $6,600. He has budgeted $40,000 for radio and TV programs during his campaign.

Questions from the public flowed in to eight studio telephone operators throughout DiSalle's broadcast. But they were swamped soon after Bricker appeared. Many were the most controversial of the evening.

DiSalle estimated as many as 200 people watched the broadcast at one time in the studio and that 500 appeared during the program.

The studio audience displayed favoritism toward DiSalle over Bricker, but DiSalle cautioned against demonstrations. After the senator left, a questioner asked if any Republicans were there. DiSalle called for a show of hands and counted three or four.

Several people protested Bricker's appearance. They said they had contributed to DiSalle's campaign and objected to giving Bricker free broadcast time.

HENRY H. FOWLER (above), former Roanoke, Va., attorney and currently Defense Production administrator, is expected to be named Defense Mobilization administrator, replacing John R. Steelman, who will return to his presidential assistant post, according to Washington reports. Other changes are reported pending in a streamlining of agencies due to lessening of need for controls. ## 1952 Pumpkin Show Passes Given Out

Tickets are now being given out for 1952's biggest event in Circleville—the annual Circleville Pumpkin Show.

Issued by Pumpkin Show Inc., sponsors of the annual four-day program, the ticket entitles the bearer to be among the 200,000 persons expected to stream into this city Oct. 22, 23, 24 and 25.

The ticket in effect is a reservation, permitting admission to the grandstand, exhibits, parades, free acts and dance. It is not good for "rides, shows nor eats."

Plans are almost completed for the 46th annual Pumpkin Show here, and this year the city will have its own pumpkins to support the occasion.

Biggest local display will be in the flower bed in front of Pickaway Courthouse, protected by Ralph Leist.

Many others, however, are being banded into prize-winning proportions in back lots by "milk-feeding" them.

Teenager From Down Under Finds No 'Bodgies' Or 'Widgies' Here

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Everybody has been picking on American teenagers so much lately it is a pleasure today to report they have a new defender.

She is lovely Diane Bell, 18, the "Miss Teen Age of Australia." Her reward for winning her title in a countrywide competition was a trip to the United States, and it has been a wonderful surprise.

"I was told they would pour chocolate sauce over my roast beef here, and I'd never get a decent cup of tea," she said, laughing. "But it hasn't been that way at all. They also told me I'd meet nothing but bodgies and widgies over here, and I haven't met one."

A bodgie, she explained, is a jitterbug-crazy boy "who wears his hair curled and long and a sport coat two sizes too big for him." A widgie is a jitterbug-crazy girl "who wears vaseline in her hair which is cut very short."

Diane said a majority of Australians "think the American teenage girl is very sophisticated, goes out every night with boys, drinks, smokes and paints her fingernails."

"I have found exactly the opposite. The girls here are sweet and natural. And your teenage boys are just like the Australian boys."

"I love a boy to be courteous, and that may make them act too old."

Both Diane and her mother like the American teen-age girl's custom of dating different boys.

"I've only dated two boys myself," she said. "In Australia teen-age boys and girls are much more keen on going steady. When a girl gets keen on her boy friend, she knits him a fine pale blue polo neck sweater with a white deer on the chest. Then she knits herself one just like it."

"They go along the street wearing these twin jumpers, holding hands, and then they are called a gruesome twosome. That means they are going steady—and for everybody else to lay off."

"I don't know who invented

that gruesome twosome business—probably a boy."

Miss Bell was amazed that teen-agers here don't know the popular Australian dance, the Powerhouse "which is swaying to and fro, cheek to cheek. After an evening of the Powerhouse, the boys take their girls out in canoes and race around the lake."

She likes the casual attire here—bobby sox, blue jeans and cotton shirts—but not for street wear.

"An Australian girl dresses like that only for housework or a picnic."

Australian teen-agers don't care so much about hanging around "mil' bars"—soda fountains. They are more sports-minded and like to "push off for the bush"—a day spent hiking in the country or horseback riding.

One of Diane's greatest adventures here was attending a baseball game.

"All the spectators got up, began booing, stomping their feet, and throwing cushions at the umpire," she recalled.

"A man stood up and said, 'now we're going to have a real rhabarb.'"

"I thought that meant someone was going to bring on a dessert—and it did seem a queer time for dessert."

"I don't know who invented

that gruesome twosome business—probably a boy."

Miss Bell was amazed that teen-agers here don't know the popular Australian dance, the Powerhouse "which is swaying to and fro, cheek to cheek. After an evening of the Powerhouse, the boys take their girls out in canoes and race around the lake."

She likes the casual attire here—bobby sox, blue jeans and cotton shirts—but not for street wear.

"An Australian girl dresses like that only for housework or a picnic."

Australian teen-agers don't care so much about hanging around "mil' bars"—soda fountains. They are more sports-minded and like to "push off for the bush"—a day spent hiking in the country or horseback riding.

One of Diane's greatest adventures here was attending a baseball game.

"All the spectators got up, began booing, stomping their feet, and throwing cushions at the umpire," she recalled.

"A man stood up and said, 'now we're going to have a real rhubarb.'"

"I thought that meant someone was going to bring on a dessert—and it did seem a queer time for dessert."

IT HELPS PRESERVE OUR LIVES

You probably read about the little boy who, because of some failure in his nervous system, could feel no pain. His life was in almost constant danger. Repeatedly he broke his arms and legs; it didn't hurt at all! He had to be guarded to prevent fatal injury.

Pain, disagreeable though it is, actually protects us. Without pain, mankind would die out. Pain tells us when something threatens our health.

Your doctor will diagnose the cause of your pain and prescribe treatment. And we will give you prompt, courteous service in filling the prescriptions he writes for you.

Guessperts List Michigan State As Tops

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Before a muscle has been flexed in serious competition, Michigan State has been selected as the No. 1 college football team of 1952 in the Associated Press annual pre-season poll.

The Spartans edged out the potent Maryland eleven in what amounted to a two-team race for the top spot, the 214 sports writers and sportscasters participating in the poll piling up 1,720 points for Coach Biggie Munn's team to 1,696 for Maryland.

Georgia Tech was a fairly respectable third choice with 1,233 points but was not even close to the first two when it came to first-place votes.

The point totals were based on 10 points for a first place vote, nine for second, eight for third, etc., and Michigan State's top point total was the result of its edge in points awarded for the lesser positions, as the Spartans received 77 first place votes to 79 for the runnerup Maryland team.

The top 10 with their point totals (first place votes in parenthesis) follow:

Michigan State (77) .....	1,720
Maryland (79) .....	1,696
Georgia Tech .....	1,233
Oklahoma (16) .....	1,058
Illinois (7) .....	1,045

Turner Favored In Dykes Match

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Aggressive Gil Turner is a 9 to 5 favorite to get back on the winning trail when he takes on stiff-punching Bobby Dykes of Miami in a 10-round fight at 9 p. m. Friday.

Stopped in 11 rounds by Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan in his last start in July, the 21-year-old Turner has been handed one of the toughest possible foes for his comeback effort.

Dykes, a 22-year-old six-footer with dynamite in either fist, has 42 knockouts to his credit in 90 pro fights. The one-time Texan was barely nosed out by Gavilan in a title fight in February and has won six in a row since.

Allie Reynolds Nearing His Goal—A 20-Victory Season

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Allie Reynolds has achieved two of three feats a pitcher dreams about—a no-hit game and a World Series triumph. Today the 33-year-old New York Yankee righthander stands a good chance of realizing the third—a 20-win season.

Reynolds, one of the game's best "money pitchers," turned in his 17th victory of the season Thursday night as the Bombers whaled the tar out of Bobby Shantz and the Philadelphia Athletics, 12-2. This enabled the Yanks to protect their three-game American League lead over the Cleveland Indians.

The Indians, behind Mike Garcia, had turned back the Detroit Tigers, 2-0, in the afternoon. In other games, Washington defeated Boston, 4-2, and St. Louis trounced Chicago, 8-0.

Brooklyn's National League advantage was clipped to seven games as the Dodgers dropped a 6-5, 11-inning decision to Boston while the runnerup New York Giants disposed of Philadelphia, 4-3, also in 11 innings. St. Louis turned back Chicago, 1-0, and Cincinnati humiliated Pittsburgh, 7-2.

Reynolds and little Bobby were hooked up in a tight duel for five innings. The Yanks scored twice in the second on Gil McDougald's homer and the A's countered in the fourth, an inning in which they blew a fine chance to rack Reynolds up. The A's loaded the bases with none out in the fourth but Reynolds was equal to the occasion and ended the inning after allowing Ed Joost to score.

Shantz got a taste of what was to come in the sixth when the Yanks shoved three runs home on Yogi Berra's two-run double and Gene Woodling's single. The seventh was a nightmare for Shantz as the Yanks rammed seven runs home.

Guessperts List Michigan State As Tops

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Before a muscle has been flexed in serious competition, Michigan State has been selected as the No. 1 college football team of 1952 in the Associated Press annual pre-season poll.

The Spartans edged out the potent Maryland eleven in what amounted to a two-team race for the top spot, the 214 sports writers and sportscasters participating in the poll piling up 1,720 points for Coach Biggie Munn's team to 1,696 for Maryland.

Georgia Tech was a fairly respectable third choice with 1,233 points but was not even close to the first two when it came to first-place votes.

The point totals were based on 10 points for a first place vote, nine for second, eight for third, etc., and Michigan State's top point total was the result of its edge in points awarded for the lesser positions, as the Spartans received 77 first place votes to 79 for the runnerup Maryland team.

The top 10 with their point totals (first place votes in parenthesis) follow:

Michigan State (77) .....	1,720
Maryland (79) .....	1,696
Georgia Tech .....	1,233
Oklahoma (16) .....	1,058
Illinois (7) .....	1,045

Turner Favored In Dykes Match

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Aggressive Gil Turner is a 9 to 5 favorite to get back on the winning trail when he takes on stiff-punching Bobby Dykes of Miami in a 10-rounder at 9 p. m. Friday.

Stopped in 11 rounds by Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan in his last start in July, the 21-year-old Turner has been handed one of the toughest possible foes for his comeback effort.

Dykes, a 22-year-old six-footer with dynamite in either fist, has 42 knockouts in his credit in 90 pro fights. The one-time Texan was barely nosed out by Gavilan in a title fight in February and has won six in a row since.

WITH HIS BIG CHANCE coming up Sept. 23 in Philadelphia when he meets Champion Jersey Joe Walcott in a title bout, Rocky Marciano, the undefeated Brockton, Mass., heavy, studies action pictures of Jersey Joe's bouts with Joe Louis at the offices of International News Photos in New York City.

YOU'RE not seeing things, for this batter is Joe DiMaggio, the old Yankee Clipper who retired from baseball last year. Joe took part in an All-Time "Oldtimers" Yankee game in New York. Catching is Wally Schang and umpiring is Al Schacht.

Allie Reynolds Nearing His Goal—A 20-Victory Season

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Allie Reynolds has achieved two of three feats a pitcher dreams about—a no-hit game and a World Series triumph. Today the 33-year-old New York Yankee righthander stands a good chance of realizing the third—a 20-win season.

Reynolds, one of the game's best "money pitchers," turned in his 17th victory of the season Thursday night as the Bombers whaled the tar out of Bobby Shantz and the Philadelphia Athletics, 12-2. This enabled the Yanks to protect their three-game American League lead over the Cleveland Indians.

The Indians, behind Mike Garcia, had turned back the Detroit Tigers, 2-0, in the afternoon. In other games, Washington defeated Boston, 4-2, and St. Louis trounced Chicago, 8-0.

Brooklyn's National League advantage was clipped to seven games as the Dodgers dropped a 6-5, 11-inning decision to Boston while the runnerup New York Giants disposed of Philadelphia, 4-3, also in 11 innings. St. Louis turned back Chicago, 1-0, and Cincinnati humiliated Pittsburgh, 7-2.

THE YANKS, held to one hit by the A's Harry Byrd Wednesday night, ripped Shantz and Ed Wright for 13 hits while Reynolds permitted eight blows.

Reynolds and little Bobby were hooked up in a tight duel for five innings. The Yanks scored twice in the second on Gil McDougald's homer and the A's countered in the fourth, an inning in which they blew a fine chance to rack Reynolds up. The A's loaded the bases with none out in the fourth but Reynolds was equal to the occasion and ended the inning after allowing Ed Joost to score.

Shantz got a taste of what was to come in the sixth when the Yanks shoved three runs home on Yogi Berra's two-run double and Gene Woodling's single. The seventh was a nightmare for Shantz as the Yanks rammed seven runs home.

Stars Arriving For Brown Jug

Rousing $60,000 Pacing Event Due On Delaware Oval Sept. 18

DELAWARE, Sept. 5 — Harness racing's brightest stars are arriving at Delaware County Fairgrounds, home of the rich Little Brown Jug.

Big line harness racing is slated for Tuesday through Friday, Sept. 16-19, with the $60,000 Jug highlighting the week on Thursday.

Viewing for the role of favorite in the Jug are such luminaries as Meadow Rice 1.58 1-5, the winter book choice, his stablemate, Adio Abe 2.00 4-5, joint half-mile track champion with a two-lap oval win record of 2.01 4-5, Thunderclap 1.59 4-5, My Time, Poplar Dell and the best the nation has to offer in three-year-old pacers.

Surveying the situation, Little Brown Jug Impresario Joe Neville forecasts the most rousing contest in the illustrious history of the world's richest pacing classic.

THE JUG WILL not be the only race that'll be packed with quality. Take the Big Five pace for instance. Seven of its entries are members of the charmed two-minute circle including the world's fastest living pacer, Sampson Hanover 1.56 4-5. Sampson, it will be remembered, won at Delaware last year in 1.59 3-5 to become the fastest half-mile track harness horse and the first to beat two minutes on a two-lapper in a race.

Other two-minute pacers include Tassel Hanover, Guinea Gold, White Mt. Boy, Hal Senor, Hal Tryax and Widower Cyrus.

Another notable pacer that's slated to show his wares here is the sensational H. B. Chief, a member of the Castleton Farm stable that's raced by Delaware's "Curly" Smart. H. B. Chief is one of the few horses to defeat Brown Jug star Adio Abe this year. H. B. has a mark of 2.00 1-5.

Heading the list of trotters to vie for the Delaware Grand Circuit money is Yankee Hanover 1.59 4-5; champion three-year-old trotter of 1951 and a consistent winner this season.

The BPOE two-year-old pace each year has a lot to do with deciding which youngster will be the winter book favorite for the next year's Jug. This year should be no exception. Included in this year's two-year-old event are Isola's Ensign, Newport Chief, Hillsola, Nibble, Rapid Way, Times Square, Kennesaw Hanover, Irish Way and Keystoner, all stars in their own right.

MEANWHILE, THE U. S. Trotting Association has opened its world record tables to accommodate two new champions, one of whom reigned but 40 minutes before relinquishing the title to a stablemate.

The new titans of the trotting world are Star's Pride and Florican, a pair of 5-year-olds.

Star's Pride is owned by E. R. Harriman of Goshen, N. Y. and L. B. Sheppard of Hanover, Pa. Florican is the property of the Arden Homestead Stable (Harriman and his nephew, E. T. Gerry).

Florican, a son of two former Arden stars, Spud Hanover and Florimel, started the fireworks at the Illinois State Fair by negotiating the first head of a $5,000 Trot in 1.57 2-5.

That represented a new race record for stallions of either gait, the trot or pace, displacing the 1.57 3-5 standard hung out by Victory Song in 1947.

But before Florican could get the word champion lettered on his blanket, Star's ride, second in that heat, came back to go him one better.

Star's Pride, a son of Worthy Boy, trotted the second heat over the lightning-fast Du Quoin oval in 1.57 1-5 with Florican second.

That not only relegated Florican to second place but it also broke two other records which Florican had missed.

It made Star's Pride not only the champion racing stallion, but the fastest race trotter of any sex and the fastest stallion in a race or against time.

The race record that fell before this mile was Greyhound's gelding mark of 1.57 1-4, made in 1936. The time trial mark for stallions that fell was Spencer Scott's identical 1.57 1-4 mile in 1941.

2 Rookies Out Of Browns Tilt

CLEVELAND, Sept. 5 — The Cleveland Browns will be without two prize rookies when they take on the Detroit Lions in a pro football exhibition in Syracuse, N. Y., Saturday night. Quarterback Don Klosterman and safety man Bert Reichichar will be missing.

Klosterman, who starred for Loyola of Los Angeles, was traded to the Dallas Texans, new National Football League entry, Thursday in exchange for a future draft choice. Reichichar is injured and won't make the trip.

Buckeyes Suffer First Casualty

COLUMBUS, Sept. 5 — The Ohio State football squad listed its first pre-season injury, Thursday. The victim was Jimmy Merrell of Geneva, line-backing candidate.

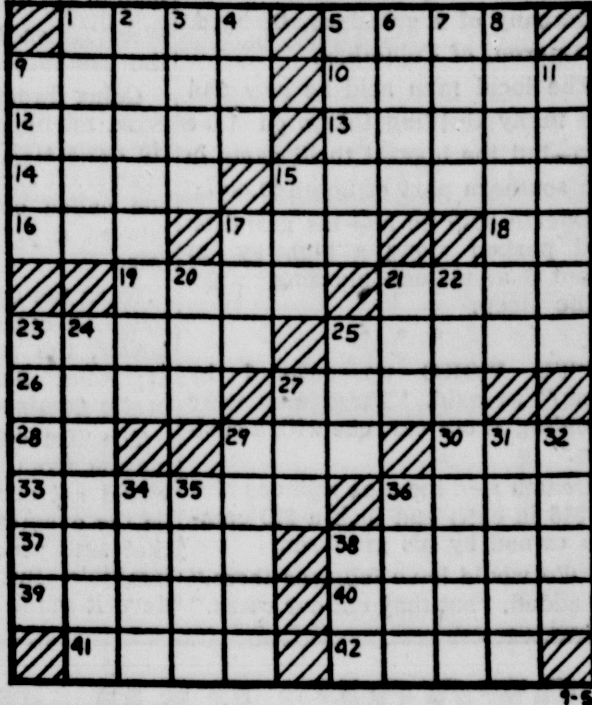

Merrell, who had a trick-knee before he reported for practice, injured it again when racing back for a pass. He may be out for the rest of the season. During the two short practice periods running and passing were accented.

FORMER star of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Floyd (Arky) Vaughan, 40, is dead at Alturas, Calif., a victim of drowning. Vaughan and a companion were on a fishing trip when the skiff in which they were sailing overturned. The companion also drowned. (International)

"Senator Ferguson. What was his position in Government?"

"Mr. Canning. He was, I believe, Deputy Administrator to the ECA, though I am not certain of his exact title."

"Senator Ferguson. That is the same man that you knew in Columbia as a Communist?"

"Mr. Canning. Yes, sir."

"Senator Ferguson. Was he active in Communism?"

"Mr. Canning. He was."

"Senator Ferguson. As active as you and Finkelstein?"

"Mr. Canning. Not quite as active as Finkelstein, but perhaps as active as I was."

There is one other reference to Theodore Geiger in the McCarran Committee testimony. Moses Finley is being examined. He says that he is a teacher at Rutgers University and that he is operating under a grant from the Ford Foundation of which Paul G. Hoffman is now the head. To avoid confusion, it must be noted that Moses Finley is the Finkelstein referred to above in the Canning testimony. He had altered his name. This is the testimony concerning Geiger:

"Mr. Morris. Did you ever meet Mr. Theodore Geiger?"

"Mr. Finley. Yes."

"Mr. Morris. Did Mr. Geiger ever attend a meeting at your home?"

"Mr. Finley. Yes."

"Senator Watkins. Do you know any Communists?"

"Mr. Finley. I must decline to answer on the grounds previously stated."

I do not know what Theodore Geiger is doing today or where he is. It is curious, however, that Paul G. Hoffman, who is now a bigshot Republican politician and who has about $25 million of Henry Ford's money to spend each year, should select assistants after attention had been called to Communist affiliations.

Also, the elder Henry Ford surely never intended that his money be employed to support persons who will not testify fully before a Congressional committee.

Stars Arriving For Brown Jug

Rousing $60,000 Pacing Event Due On Delaware Oval Sept. 18

DELAWARE, Sept. 5 — Harness racing's brightest stars are arriving at Delaware County Fairgrounds, home of the rich Little Brown Jug.

Big line harness racing is slated for Tuesday through Friday, Sept. 16-19, with the $60,000 Jug highlighting the week on Thursday.

Viewing for the role of favorite in the Jug are such luminaries as Meadow Rice 1.58 1-5, the winter book choice, his stablemate, Adio Abe 2.00 4-5, joint half-mile track champion with a two-lap oval win record of 2.01 4-5, Thunderclap 1.59 4-5, My Time, Poplar Dell and the best the nation has to offer in three-year-old pacers.

Surveying the situation, Little Brown Jug Impresario Joe Neville forecasts the most rousing contest in the illustrious history of the world's richest pacing classic.

THE JUG WILL not be the only race that'll be packed with quality. Take the Big Five pace for instance. Seven of its entries are members of the charmed two-minute circle including the world's fastest living pacer, Sampson Hanover 1.56 4-5. Sampson, it will be remembered, won at Delaware last year in 1.59 3-5 to become the fastest half-mile track harness horse and the first to beat two minutes on a two-lapper in a race.

Other two-minute pacers include Tassel Hanover, Guinea Gold, White Mt. Boy, Hal Senator, Hal Tryax and Widower Cyrus.

Another notable pacer that's slated to show his wares here is the sensational H. B. Chief, a member of the Castleton Farm stable that's raced by Delaware's "Curly" Smart. H. B. Chief is one of the few horses to defeat Brown Jug star Adio Abe this year. H. B. has a mark of 2.00 1-5.

Heading the list of trotters to vie for the Delaware Grand Circuit money is Yankee Hanover 1.59 4-5; champion three-year-old trotter of 1951 and a consistent winner this season.

The BPOE two-year-old pace each year has a lot to do with deciding which youngster will be the winter book favorite for the next year's Jug. This year should be no exception. Included in this year's two-year-old event are Isola's Ensign, Newport Chief, Hillsota, Nibble, Rapid Way, Times Square, Kennesaw Hanover, Irish Way and Keystone, all stars in their own right.

MEANWHILE, THE U. S. Trotting Association has opened its world record tables to accommodate two new champions, one of whom reigned but 40 minutes before relinquishing the title to a stablemate.

The new titans of the trotting world are Star's Pride and Florican, a pair of 5-year-olds.

Star's Pride is owned by E. R. Harriman of Goshen, N. Y. and L. B. Sheppard of Hanover, Pa. Florican is the property of the Arden Homestead Stable (Harriman and his nephew, E. T. Gerry).

Florican, a son of two former Arden stars, Spud Hanover and Florimel, started the fireworks at the Illinois State Fair by negotiating the first head of a $5,000 Trot in 1.57 2-5.

That represented a new race record for stallions of either gait, the trot or pace, displacing the 1.57 3-5 standard hung out by Victory Song in 1947.

But before Florican could get the word champion lettered on his blanket, Star's ride, second in that heat, came back to go him one better.

Star's Pride, a son of Worthy Boy, trotted the second heat over the lightning-fast Du Quoin oval in 1.57 1-5 with Florican second.

That not only relegated Florican to second place but it also broke two other records which Florican had missed.

It made Star's Pride not only the champion racing stallion, but the fastest race trotter of any sex and the fastest stallion in a race or against time.

The race record that fell before this mile was Greyhound's gelding mark of 1.57 1/4, made in 1936. The time trial mark for stallions that fell was Spencer Scott's identical 1.57 1/4 mile in 1941.

2 Rookies Out Of Browns Tilt

CLEVELAND, Sept. 5 — The Cleveland Browns will be without two prize rookies when they take on the Detroit Lions in a pro football exhibition in Syracuse, N. Y., Saturday night. Quarterback Don Klosterman and safety man Bert Reichach will be missing.

Klosterman, who starred for Loyola of Los Angeles, was traded to the Dallas Texans, new National Football League entry, Thursday in exchange for a future draft choice. Reichach is injured and won't make the trip.

Buckeyes Suffer First Casualty

COLUMBUS, Sept. 5 — The Ohio State football squad listed its first pre-season injury, Thursday. The victim was Jimmy Merrell of Geneva, line-backing candidate.

Merrell, who had a trick-knee before he reported for practice, injured it again when racing back for a pass. He may be out for the rest of the season. During the two short practice periods running and passing were accented.

Showdown Drive For City Manager Plan Launched Here

Home Stretch Approaching In Campaign

Citizens Committee Issues Condensed Charter Version

A drive to give Circleville a city council-manager type of government moved quietly into high gear Thursday night in a meeting of the Citizens Committee, pilot group for the proposal coming up for decision here in November.

The meeting, held in offices of The Circleville Herald, was the first in a series leading up to "home stretch" efforts in behalf of the city manager plan.

Headed by Elliott Barnhill, the committee discussed a variety of steps designed to touch off all-out phases of the campaign. Action is expected to take on added momentum next week when members of the Charter Commission and other interested parties will be invited to meet with the citizen's group.

Following its acceptance by city council, the proposed charter is now being printed and prepared for distribution to the voters. Under law, each voter must receive a copy of it at least 30 days prior to the election.

REPRESENTING the "first shot" of the showdown stage in the drive for a new type of city government here, the Citizens Committee has released a condensed version of the main provisions of the proposed charter.

As listed in the condensation, the new charter would provide:

1. A city manager-council type of government for Circleville and do away with the present mayor-council form.

2. The council will be composed of seven members, elected from the city at large and not from special wards. Their term of office will be for four years as compared with two years of the present councilman's term.

Council shall have all legislative power; shall appropriate all moneys; pass the city budget; hire and fire the city manager and fix his salary; hire and fire the city attorney and fix his salary as well as the finance director and city clerk. Council shall also have control of all utilities in the city and the rates to be fixed for such services.

3. The city manager will be employed by council on the basis of his special training or ability and will have complete executive power to operate the city in a business like manner.

The city manager will be employed by council for an indefinite period at a salary fixed by council and can be removed by council at any time.

The manager need not be a local resident but must reside in Circleville during the time, he acts as city manager.

THE MANAGER has authority to combine any or all jobs, heads of departments, or offices, except that of finance director and city attorney. He, himself, may hold any office except the two named above and in general employs and removes all help and is charged with providing a better and more efficient local city government. He also is charged with long range planning for Circleville and its future needs, with the making of detailed budgeting so that council may better expend the money to the best advantages of the whole city.

After Council appropriates money for any purpose, the contracts and general expenditures are in the hands and control of the city manager.

4. The mayor and vice mayor under the Charter will be some one of the councilmen elected by council to hold these offices and these

Pre-School Clinic Slated For Sept. 17

A pre-school clinic sponsored by Circleville's Parent-Teacher Association for children of the first grade will be held Sept. 17 in Franklin street school.

Announcement of the date was made by Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick of 703 North Pickaway street, chairman of the PTA health committee.

The examinations will be given by local physicians and dentists, assisted by members of the Nurses' Association, members of the PTA and city school teachers.

All teachers in Franklin Street school and all first grade teachers at the other city schools are to aid in the work.

MRS. KIRKPATRICK said the checkup will cover all of the city's 196 first graders.

Parents will receive reminder slips calling their attention to the clinic, through their children.

A parent should accompany each child, Mrs. Kirkpatrick said.

She emphasized that if any parent prefers to have the examination made by the family physician and dentist, it should be done before the opening of school.

positions become more like the present president of council and an honorary mayor for civic functions, having no real power in themselves, except that the mayor becomes the chief judicial officer of the city.

The mayor is elected by council from its own membership for a term of two years and he cannot hold any other office in the city government except that of councilman.

5. Elections under the charter will change the present system in the following manner: There will be no city primary election, all candidates will appear on the ballot by petition—in general, the same as township officials now appear on the ballot. The only officials elected will be the seven members of council. All candidates will appear on a non-partisan ballot.

6. Hospital and health functions will continue under the present plan. Special provision is made in the charter to continue the joint city-county operation of Berger Hospital. The health department is provided for by the laws of the state and cannot be changed by the charter, but with improved facilities under a manager will function in a better manner.

7. ADDITIONAL THINGS under the charter: It keeps the present planning and zoning commission; recognizes Civil Service status of all departments where it now exists; makes the city manager responsible for, but not chief of, the police and fire departments; makes the city manager responsible for the service and safety departments; provides in detail for initiative and referendum rights to the people as a control on its councilmen and their laws; permits the manager to combine and consolidate offices and jobs and hire and fire his helpers.

8. The charter does not provide for a municipal court as this can be done only by an act of the state legislature and is outside of the powers of this charter.

9. The cost of the manager form of government should be no greater than the present costs, and, due to business like efficiency, should be less. The form of local government under this charter is superior to the present mayor-council form and places city government on a business basis rather than a political basis.

10. Effective date as planned, and if approved by a majority of the voters this November, will be on its adoption except for offices holding over until January 1, 1954.

PICKAWAY DAIRY

Tour Of West Real Thriller For Local Man

Walter Dearth of Pickaway Township returned home Wednesday following a three-week auto tour through the not-so-tame west.

Dearth's trip was made in the company of a grandson, Richard Cameron, of Columbus.

The local man said he saw and did many thrilling things on the trip—but the biggest thrill came in the southern part of South Dakota.

Dearth said he and his grandson had parked along a highway at about 5 a. m. one morning to get some sleep.

"WE WOKE up covered by guns," he said. "Three men were standing at our car, one with a shotgun."

Dearth said the men relieved him of $18 in cash and took a $50 camera owned by his grandson.

"We would have followed them," he added, "but they cut our wires."

Van Wert Poll Gives Edge To General Ike

VAN WERT, Sept. 5—How will Van Wert County mark its presidential ballot in November? Best way to get an inkling, says the Van Wert Times-Bulletin, is not to ask the candidates but the voters.

Going through the local telephone book, members of the Times-Bulletin news staff attempted to get an answer. It found that only one person called objected to the query, labeled it prying into personal affairs.

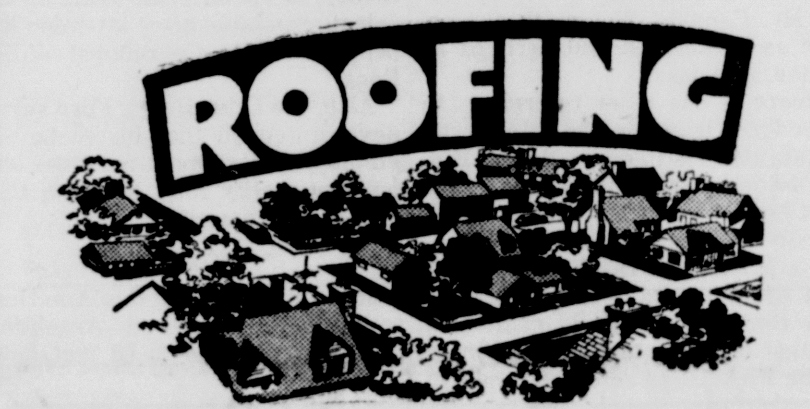

When the newsmen added up the totals, it came out: Dwight Eisenhower, the Republican candidate, 47; Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic nominee, 30; undecided 25.

The Times-Bulletin drew no conclusion from the tabulation and would not concede that Ike would be the eventual winner. It recalled that 1948 proved polls were not infallible. But the paper did believe it made an interesting story.
